COLLEGE MOURNS ARCHBISHOP GERKEN D. D.

Will to Do Leads Mjr. Wm. Kaiser To Officer Post

Have the will to do! That is the evident philosophy of Major William J. Kaiser, '35, gleaned from the recent news release from Selman Field, Monroe, La., announcing his promotion on March 16 from Captain to Major.

MAJOR KAISER

One incident during the two years that Major Kaiser spent in St. Joseph's then junior college reveals an adventuresome spirit: he sent a birthday greeting to Kaiser Wilhelm, remarking that they both had the same name. The Kaiser acknowledged this gesture. It was early evidence of the will to do.

Soon after completing his junior college preparation the Wabash, Indiana, lad turned to flying. As a result, he has more than seven years' experience as a pilot. As a civilian he was a pilot, instructor, and airport manager over a period of four and a half years. His last civilian job was the direction of the CAA pilot-training program at Indiana University.

Prompted by the will to do, with 1300 hours in the air to his credit, Major Kaiser in 1939 began the series of written examinations, Air Corps extension courses and flight tests then prescribed for civilian pilots seeking Army commissions. In March, 1940, he was commissioned a reserve second lieutenant; in July of that year he was ordered to extended active duty and assigned to Maxwell Field, Ala.

There and in other Army Air Fields his advance has been as steady and rapid as his assignments have been diversified. He was promoted to first lieutenant Nov. 11, 1941; to captain, March 1, 1942. Chief pilot at Barksdale Field, La., pilot squadron commander and assistant navigation operations officer at Turner Field, Ga., operations officer of Group IV at Selman Field, since shortly after his promotion to Major he is commanding officer of Navigation Training Group IV of the advanced Navigation School there.

Since March 4 Major Kaiser is married. His wife is the former Miss Laura Lucille Clark of Orchard Hill, Ga.

War or Sports Boys Play Game

Temporarily a student officer at the Wheeled Vehicle School at Fort Knox, 1st Lt. Cyril J. Gaffney, '37, will report back to his permanent station, the 83rd Armored Medical Battalion, 13th Armored Division, Camp Beale, Calif., about April 10.

Cy reads and re-reads CONTACT, which "sort of brings back to me my days at St. Joe and backs up my theory that our boys perform as well on the fields of battle as they did on our athletic fields."

St. Joseph Alumnus Cited For Efforts in Education

"A man after God's own heart." In these few words Bishop Lynch characterized the late Archbishop Gerken of Santa Fe when delivering the funeral oration.

Catholic diocesan weeklies and the secular dailies throughout the country carried the announcement of Archbishop Gerken's death, and most of them gave extensive biographical facts. It is needless to repeat these here. The illustrious prelate deserved all the tributes he received. He was the hound of heaven in his efforts to retrieve souls for Christ.

For two years, 1908-1910, after finishing high school at Pio Nono, St. Francis, Wisconsin, Archbishop Gerken studied at St. Joseph's. Then began his active life. In the public schools of Texas, in the University of Dallas, as a seminarian at Kenrick Seminary, St. Louis, he taught. Teaching and promoting education were his outstanding achievements during the days of his priesthood.

Later, as bishop of Amarillo, Texas, and as archbishop of Santa Fe, when he could no longer directly devote himself to teaching, he established and organized colleges and clubs that correct education might be the portion of as many as possible. The Archdiocesan Teachers College of Albuquerque and St. Mary's Convent of Santa Fe owe their origin to him.

So do numerous study clubs, religious vacation schools, the Council of Catholic Women and the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine in his diocese. The Register was his official archdiocesan weekly newspaper.

On March 2, Archbishop Gerken, one of St. Joseph's most illustrious alumni, at the age of 56, died suddenly of a stroke. The spirit of his teaching lives.

Try Recruiting? Ask Joe Sanislo

If you want to know how recruiting is done ask Joe Sanislo, '31. He's Station Commander of the U. S. Army Recruiting Office, Federal Building, Lexington, Kentucky.

Previous to his appointment to this post, March 19, Joe was for nine months enlisting Aviation Cadets at the University of Kentucky. In Lexington he is concerned also with the Enlisted Reservists and the WAACs.

Sgt. Sanislo, DEML-R&IS, admits that he is kept very busy but insists that when, after being commissioned, Cadets return to talk over their pioneer hours this is excellent compensation for all the previous work.

A TENNESSEE swamp is a good place for maneuvers, but it doesn't make a very good bed. If Noah took only one pair of mosquitoes in to the ark they should have multiplied since. Chaplain Esser is with the Ho. 79th Div., APO 79, Nashville, Tenn.

IS IT UNPatriotic for a college to hold a formal dance today? We do not think so. The fact that we are at war does not imply that we must forego all pleasures and amusements. Rather, that very fact argues for diversions even as any intense activity requires an occasional change of pace—a breather, after which we return to our occupation with renewed vigor and enthusiasm.

A prom accomplishes this... It does more. Successfully presented, with a good turnout, it leaves a substantial amount on the credit side of the ledger to use for some worthy purpose. War bonds can be purchased; contributions made to the Red Cross, to service recreation centers, or to a number of other recommended causes.

There's a special reason for a prom this year. It will serve as a farewell party to the seniors and other students who will leave St. Joseph's at the end of the school year to enter the service of their country.

FREQUENTLY WE HAVE SUGGESTED that the names and addresses of alumni in the armed service are printed regularly so that those on the home front who know them may write to them. That is the least that we can do. If we wish to do more, and we should, we can pray for them.

Prayers are said publicly every day in the chapel for all alumni who are seeing action or are preparing for action. One alumnus, himself an officer, sends in a check for $10.00 every few weeks as a stipend to have Masses said for those who die in the service and who have few to pray for them.

A RELIC OF THE TRUE CROSS was given to one of the members of the faculty recently by a relative who is a religious. It is an authentic relic, properly endorsed and sealed. It may, therefore, be venerated not only privately but publicly in any church or chapel.

Contained in a silver capsule about the size of a man's wrist watch, the two small pieces of wood are visible through a glass face. This capsule with its treasure should be placed in a reliquary, somewhat resembling the monstrance used at Benediction when the relic is exposed for public veneration. The present owner of the relic will say one Mass annually during the rest of his life for the one or ones who present this reliquary to the college chapel.

A generous contribution to the fieldhouse came in the other day from a young man who was recently married.

STUFF And SUCH

This year the Commerce Club made its field trip to Chicago via Monon route. The Museum of Science and Industry and other places of interest were covered.

An innovation of the past month is the clock located in the chemistry department which automatically rings all class bells on time. Bro. Wm. Cobb's precision has been regained.

New magazine racks with adjustable compartments for individual publications are appearing in the library. Designed and executed by Father Edmund Guillozet, they lend a pleasing appearance; each magazine, regardless of its size, stands just as high as its neighbors.

Daily Mass at eight o'clock during Lent is a convenience, for students can still reach the 8:30 class on time. Should they miss 7:45 breakfast there's the J Cafe for a snack.

When taking your cuffless suit to the cleaners before Easter, include your tux. For the Monogram Club spring prom date is set for May 1. Even if there is rationing of tires and gas, the Monon still runs.

At the third annual Chicago Bird-Banding Conference, March 20, Father John Baechle addressed the group on the topic, "Bird Banding on a College Campus." The meetings were held in the Academy of Sciences building in Lincoln Park, Chicago.

Internationally famous, the Jubilee Singers of Fisk University gave a thrilling program of Negro spirituals and other songs characteristic of their race in the auditorium, March 17.

Remember those Sunday night band concerts when you were a student? The band is preparing one for April 16. This will be on the stage.

Students residing in Gaspar Hall won an extra town night by collecting the largest amount in a four-day drive for funds for the Red Cross.

When the Pumas had sunk the Navy for the second time, March 11, they finished their current basketball season. Their .500 average hardly tells the tale. Several games lost were too close to be comfortable to any opponent; besides, the local cagers defeated quintets that were rated their superiors by the sports dopesters.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," presented by the C. L. S. and C. Y. O. girls from Rensselaer and Whiting March 14 and 21, was played before full houses on both occasions. Both the play and acting were of such quality that the troupe could well appear anywhere.

Those daily walks from Drexel to the main campus may have had something to do with the results of the inter-hall basketball tournament. At any rate, the Drexel five drubbed Noll 39-15, Seifert 25-15, and Xavier 34-25 to win gloriously. Seifert had dumped Gaspar 31-24.

If you are not a patron and still want a copy of "Phase," the college yearbook, you may write to Bill Smith, business manager. The annual should be ready for distribution shortly before Easter.

When the Rev. Mark Hamburger, C.P.P.S., joined the college faculty in 1894, he was twenty-five years old. He remained on the faculty nine years.

During those years the V. Rev. Msgr. Arnold, Chief of Army Chaplains, was a student. Writing to one of the Fathers recently in response to the announcement of Father Mark's death, Msgr. Arnold stated: "I owe them all (the early faculty) a debt of gratitude which nothing in the wide world can repay but the Holy Sacrifice. The older I grow, the more I realize that the daily lives of those men, not their learning and classroom lectures, gave me the kind of education I needed most and have used most."

Speaking of Father Mark specifically, Msgr. Arnold continues: "There was a Holy week sometime between 1896 and 1902 when Father Mark conducted the services at the church in Rensselaer. He took me along each morning and our transportation was horse and buggy. The nag was lazy (or old) and slow, so there was plenty of time going and returning for Father Mark to tell me much about life's problems as he met them and solved them. He said things which meant more to me than anything I ever got from books. When a sincerely good man discloses his inmost thoughts, convictions, and experience to a growing boy he is doing a real job of teaching—the Gospel type of teaching."

Including school groups there are at present almost 50,000 semi-professional and amateur orchestras in the United States. The sole purpose of these is to get joy out of music making.

This is not a new development. While it didn't have its inception at St. Joseph's College, for it antedates the founding of this venerable institution by scores of years, it is interesting to note that the pioneers of the college were music-minded from the first.

So true is this that before five years had passed a separate building was being planned for music. Gaspar Hall was under construction during the scholastic year 1896-97.

Meanwhile the only gymnasium was housed in the basement of this music department. Announcement of a gymnasium building to be appeared first in the tenth annual catalog, 1900-91. Finally, during the summer of 1904, this building rose from the ground, a building planned as much for music as for athletics. Truly, music was born with the college; it blossomed luxuriously throughout the first decade; it has borne fruit consistently ever since.

Kozielski Again Advances; Is Now First Lieutenant

Sgt. Tichenor Glad To Read Addresses Of Men in Uniform

EDITOR OF CONTACT:

I have just received the March issue of CONTACT. The Alumni paper is undoubtedly living up to its name as it has revealed to me the whereabouts of many of my close friends and classmates.

I enlisted in the Army Air Forces February 5, 1942, and have been stationed in Arkansas for the past eight months after spending about five months at Columbus, Miss. My duties consist of caring for service records of enlisted men and making out payrolls to see that they are not disappointed on that all-important last day of the month.

Sincerely,

S/Sgt. Wm. G. Tichenor, '41.
Hqs & Hqs Sq., 26th TE Flying
Training Group, BAAF, Blytheville, Arkansas.

June has been a propitious month for William Kozielski, formerly of 2911 Cermak Road, Chicago. In June, 1941, he was graduated from St. Joseph's College; a year later, on June 3, he received his commission as Second Lieutenant in the armed forces.

Not only June, however. Four months to the day after receiving his commission, on October 3, 1942, Lt. Kozielski was married to Miss Estelle Kotas, an old sweetheart, also from Chicago. They now live in Joplin, Mo.

Even January becomes June for Bill, for on January 4, 1943, he was promoted to First Lieutenant. One finds the reason for these rapid promotions in his philosophy.

Winding up a lengthy communication recently, Lt. Kozielski said: "Above all, tell the boys to work hard and make the best of everything." He has worked hard. He did at St. Joe; he does in the army.

Inducted on Aug. 7, 1941, Bill applied himself to the multiple tasks assigned him. That's why, immediately after his first commission he was made Company Commander of a series of units which were being activated. First one, then twelve at the same time.

A month after receiving his commission as First Lieutenant, Lt. Kozielski was placed in command of the First Battalion at Camp Crowder, Mo. Other duties include those of being Salvage Officer, War Bond Officer, Income Tax Advisory Officer, Summary Court Officer, and Investigating Officer. Besides these he is a member of the Officer Candidate Board, the Army Specialized Training Board, and a Spec. 1 Court.

Made Staff Sergeant

"Luck is still with me, for today (March 24) I was made Staff Sergeant. My new job will be Asst. First Sgt. That is, it will be till I leave for Officer Candidate School, which I don't believe is very far off." Wm. C. Dieruf, Jr., '42, speaking from the Hq. Det., 1570th S. U. Camp Breckenridge, Ky. Any old friends who write are assured an answer.

Former Injury Takes Life of Father A. Pax

Brother of Fathers Victor Pax, '30, and Walter, '23, present principal of the academy, the Rev. Anthony Pax, '14, died at Carthagena, Ohio, Friday evening, March 26. He was fifty-three years old.

Death was not unexpected. Injured in an automobile accident some years ago, Father Pax suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. Because of its location on the brain doctors could give no relief; instead, they advised that blindness would result and that eventually the functioning of the mind would be impaired.

Father Pax, who had done parish work in northern Wisconsin and in Ohio previously, was retired to the seminary. There, knowing all the while the gravity of his condition, he was an example of cheerfulness and good humor.

A recent examination revealed a tumor between the lungs, perhaps another development from his accident. Ten days before his death he received the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

Formerly Maurice Meyers; Now Father Mavriki, S.J.

There's much in a name, decided Maurice F. Meyers, '30, who, while he was a scholastic studying for the Jesuit Order at West Baden College, West Baden Springs, Ind., volunteered for foreign mission work. Russia was his objective.

Came the war, when as a deacon he had to interrupt his studies in Rome. Instead of returning to the States he sailed for Shanghai, where he began catechizing. There, almost two years ago he was ordained a priest of the Russian rite.

Even while doing his prep work in St. Joseph's Academy, Maurice chased away the goblins of Latin syntax by approaching every task with the spirit of adventure. At West Baden he was again the same "jovial, boat-building, trail-blazing, adventure-loving, romantic-realistic, practical-idealistic dreamer and worker."

In Rome, eggs fried in olive oil were as digestible as wheatis; Russian grammar, as simple to apply as A. B. C. shoe polish.

Cody Transferred

From Keesler Field, Miss., during the past month Pvt. Richard E. Cody, '41, has been transferred to the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala. He will remain there for a course of instruction lasting approximately five months prior to his appointment as an Aviation Cadet in the Army Forces Flying Training Command.

Chaplain U. Wurm Tells About Cook, Altar, Bread Baker

Toledo, O.—(Special)—An army cook somewhere in Africa was converted into an altar bread baker by Maj. Urban J. Wurm, '33, Catholic army chaplain, according to a letter written to the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter of Toledo. "Considering the facilities at hand, he produced most satisfactory results," says the chaplain.

Maj. Wurm speaks highly of the sacrifices the boys at the front make in performing their religious duties. "Mass is said early before first call and, in order to arrive on time from nearby units, they have the sentries awaken them."

Father Wurm visited the grave of Father Falter, C.P.P.S.

Make Eddie Tyber Acting Corporal

Something like trial marriage it must be in the army to be promoted to acting corporal and then have to pass a test for qualifying. That's Edward Tyber's, '37, status, he writes. But he also was tops in his battalion of 650 men, with an I. Q. of 140. Evidently, it will be Corporal unqualified very soon.

Still up at Camp McCoy, Eddie is looking for Pvt. Don Clark. Get off those Skis, Don, before he trains a field artillery piece on you and blows you to the north pole.

Ed finds the mathematics for placing a 100 lb. shell within a radius of 30 yards at a range of five or six miles an exacting science.

Three Glockners Join Naval Air Training Corps

Three Glockner boys—Edward and Leo, brothers, and Robert, a cousin—came up from Portsmouth, O., to St. Joseph's in the autumn of 1940. All three became Aviation Cadets in the U. S. N. R. when the call to the service was sounded.

Edward is now taking basic training at the Naval Air Base, Olothe, Kan. Robert and Leo have completed their training at Iowa Pre-Flight School. The former expected to join his cousin at Olothe; Leo expected to continue training at Minneapolis.

Danehy Receives M. D.; Goes East To Pursue Graduate Studies There

A welcome visitor of the last March week-end was Doctor Robert J. Danehy, '39, with his wife, the former Agnes Stokes of Carlyle, Illinois. They were on their way to Baltimore, Md., where Doctor Danehy has accepted a position as intern at the South Baltimore General Hospital. He reported there April 1.

While in Baltimore, Dr. Danehy plans to do post-graduate work at the University of Maryland and attend clinics at John Hopkins Hospital. Deeply interested in surgery, he wishes to spend four years at special study.

During his last year in the St. Louis University School of Medicine, from which he received his M. D. on Feb. 20, Dr. Danehy was an extern at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, Ill. There he met Miss Stokes, a nurse. They were married March 8, in St. Mary's Church, Carlyle. The doctor resigned from his position at St. Mary's Hospital in favor of the greater opportunities for research in Baltimore.

Lingering for hours with Father Kroeckel and other of his former profs in the laboratories of St. Joseph's pre-med department, Dr. Danehy related a series of interesting experiences he gathered during his years in medical school. If they were years of intense application, they have sharpened his desire to advance further in his field.

Federal C. L. Hughes World War Veteran Sails for Action

Veteran of World War I, in which he served as a First Lieutenant, Major Charles L. Hughes, '11, has acted until recently in the capacity of Post Quartermaster in the Port of Embarkation, Fort Mason, San Francisco. Major Hughes sailed for a foreign assignment recently.

On the St. Joe campus, "We were buddies in woe," says Father James Fitzgerald, '14, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Remington, who also states that at that time Major Hughes' nickname was Federal.

Announce Changes For Priest-Alumni

Several alumni who are priests of the Diocese of Fort Wayne received appointments during the last week of March.

From Monroeville, the Rev. Theodore Fettig, '16, has gone to the pastorate of St. Peter's, LaPorte. He is succeeded by the Rev. Joseph Hennes, '22, at St. Rose Church, Monroeville. Father Hennes will continue as Diocesan Director of the CYO.

The Rev. William Faber, '30, is chaplain of St. Vincent Villa, Fort Wayne, and the Rev. Michael Vichuras, '33, teacher at Central Catholic High School, Fort Wayne, is in charge of the Allen County Institutions—the infirmary, the Irene Byron T. B. Sanitarium, and the Home for the Feeble-Minded.

Father Joseph Shenk Teaches Aeronautics

Under the guidance of the Rev. Joseph D. Shenk, '28, pupils of Central Catholic High School, Toledo, Ohio, are studying aeronautics for the first time in the history of the school.

Father Shenk, who received his immediate preparation for this type of teaching at the Catholic University, has a class of seven girls and fifty boys. Those who pass the ground-school test receive a certificate of Aeronautical Knowledge.

DANCE DATE SET

May 1 is definitely set for the annual Monogram formal dance. Bids will not be more than they were last year, $4.00 a couple. An orchestra has not been selected as yet. Committees are at work on all arrangements. Alumni are cordially invited. Only if too many students are called to the armed forces before the time of the dance will there be any change in the plans so far made.

Hodous Writes Of Africa Life

Before me lie three letters and a U. S. postal money order for more than a few dollars. Two of the letters and the money, the latter to be applied to the field-house, are from Lt. Francis C. Hodous, '40. The other letter, from a friend, is about him.

Lt. Hodous has not lost his faith in man or God since his induction into the army more than two years ago. Leaving the States last July, he saw action against the Japs, was wounded, and returned three weeks later. Then he was transferred to the Ordnance Division and promoted to First Lieutenant. He sailed for Africa with the huge invasion convoy last October. There he is stationed at present.

Those letters reveal the horrors of war and the consolations of religion. The sky black with planes; the consecrated Host lifted at a field Mass. Bursting bombs hurling you off your feet; soldiers swarming to the Catholic church. Stabbing through ten Japs with a bayonet; spending the Lenten season so near to the places where Christ lived and died, where the Apostles once preached.

One thing strikes Lt. Hodous in North Africa—the buildings are very modern. "One wonders if our contractors did not get their building ideas from here." However, the cities are walled, and even the little homes both inside and outside the cities are walled in.

Sergeant F. Omor Has Four Brothers in Service

One of five brothers in the armed service, Sgt. Francis J. Omor, '40, is in the South Pacific. He is in the U. S. Marine Corps, Unit No. 1040, c/o Fleet Postmaster, San Francisco, California.

Altepeter Reads Contact Abroad

North Africa, Feb. 11, 1943.

Dear Editor:

These few lines will let you know that I have been receiving CONTACT and STUFF regularly here. I also wish to inform you that my address has been changed.

Very truly yours,
Pvt. Michael W. Altepeter, '34.

Represents Ohio

Writing on the topic, "General Philip Henry Sheridan," Julia Fecher, daughter of Constantine J. Fecher, Ph.D., '14, was chosen to represent Ohio in the final national selection of winners in the annual Irish day essay contest sponsored by the Ladies auxiliary of the A. O. H.

Julia is a pupil in Immaculate Conception School, Dayton, O.

Merritt Schoder Sails on Tanker

One of three brothers in the Service, Merritt W. Schoder, who spent the year 1941-'42 at St. Joe, entered the Merchant Marines last October.

Merritt sailed on a Tanker Jan. 1. Cables from him from time to time tell his parents that he is fine. They live at 283 E. Van Buren, Battle Creek, Mich.

Shortest Buck in Camp

Not size but quality counts since Feb. 3, when Pvt. Arnold H. Kramer, '42, was inducted. Arnold must be the shortest buck private in his division. It's an engineer in the Amphibian Command, he'll be, and he's listed 35625891, Hq. & Hq. Co., 544 E. A. R., Ft. Devens, Mass.

Private to Corporal Goes Bill Quinlan

Promoted during this past month from Private to Corporal, William Quinlan, '42, is now in Co. I, 800th Sig. Tng. Rgt., still at Camp Crowder, Mo.

Bill is attending Wire Chief's School. Of a sharp shooter's medal which he was awarded he is quite proud.

to a filthy prison room to hear the confession of a sick Russian. Two weeks later he contracted typhus which sent his fever soaring to almost 106 and cast him into a delirium for over a week. When he recovered he wrote, "I lost a good chance to lay down my arms with honor."

To be just that much more like the Russians whom he has vowed to serve, Father Meyers changed his name to Mavriki at the time of his ordination.

"I hope you and all my friends will remember a far off adventurer where it really accounts," is Father Mavriki's suggestion.

Charles Marcis Waits for Papers

Because he preferred flying to any other assignment in the Army, Cpl. Charles Marcis, '42, has received a transfer to the Glider Troop Division. Down at Camp Mackall he is doing personnel work.

The transfer there and the promotion to Corporal has come very recently, and Charles did the thing we appreciate by notifying us of both promptly.

I want to thank all concerned for my issues of the papers," says Cpl. Marcis, who "can hardly wait until the next issue arrives."

As a parting thought, "I would appreciate it very much if some of my classmates would drop me a line once in a while." (35333652, Serv. Co. 188 Glid. Inf., A.P.O. No. 468, Camp Mackall, Hoffman, N. C.)

Longs for Home

When Lt. Charles J. Sheehan, 19, saw a priest wearing a large crucifix recently down in Miami Beach, Florida, he grew homesick for St. Joe. The priest was Father Joseph Smolar, C.P.P.S., who is studying at the Institutum Divi Thomae there.

A First Lieutenant in the Air Corps, Sheehan is stationed at A.A.F.O.T.S., Roney Plaza, Rm 233, Miami Beach.

THE ROUNDUP

by

Coach Joe Dienhart

The College Athletic Board decided that in intercollegiate athletics a modified program of baseball should be carried out this spring. Weather permitting, it starts on April 5 against Indiana University of Bloomington. Possibly ten or twelve games will be played.

PRESENT SCHEDULE.

April 5—Indiana, There
April 8—Ball State, There.
April 10—DePauw, Here.
April 17—Ill. Wesleyan, There.
April 29—Butler, There.
May 1—Burdue, There.
May 5—Butler, Here.
May 8—Ill. Wesleyan, Here.
May 10—Purdue, Here.
May 14—Ball State, Here.

Because of the war it is necessary to operate the athletic program on what may be called a weekly basis. Students are subject to call everywhere. Transportation is a universal problem.

As for the team, it is weak in some positions; in others it has been strengthened. Just the other day we lost Charles Hodges, an excellent pitcher. Jim Beane and Merritt Schoder, both starting pitchers last year, are also gone.

The burden of pitching will fall on Al Waznis, a senior. Others who give promise but who are without college experience include Tom Bestudik, Cy Blanton, Frank Kuhajda, Tony Sandrick, and Bill Stechschulte. With George Ellspermann, a veteran, catching, and Lou Bernhard, Bob Luther, and Jim Boland to rely on, we are well taken care of.

Around the infield we have John Boyle, a senior, at first, John Murphy, a senior, at second, and Gil Hodges at third. Two men, John Judge and Mike Sokol, are being tried at shortstop. Outfield prospects include Paul Reichert, Stan Wisniewski, Tom Scollard, and James Kelly.

Although the future of athletics is uncertain we plan to carry on as well as we can as long as there are any students at all.

Off Campus, '03-'33

Write to These Men At Their Revised Army-Navy Addresses

New and changed addresses of service men are numerous this month. Here they are for you to write to the men.
